Ora Lee Trice, the negro woman mixed up in the case, was set at liberty, as there was no incriminating evidence before the court.

THE REX

Is Offering Fine Bills For Today and Friday.

Manager Shrode presents a fine bill for today and tonight. The leading presentation is an Imp drama, called "His Mother's Love."

Friday's bill is a thriller as a starter for other good things. It is a 2-reel Bison, entitled "The Guerilla's Menace," and like all western plays catches the young and old alike. There's something doing every minute.

First Burial, Man Killed.

In 1881 when the new Riverside Cemetery was opened, the first three men buried in it were killed. Last month the Cave Spring Cemetery for colored people was opened and the first man buried therein, Gilbert Hooks, was killed at Casky. However Hooks was not the first person to be buried. The first grave was for Lottie Trice, a young woman.

Scraps of Wall Paper Clue To The Identity of a Night Rider.

Henderson, Ky., July 9.—Scraps of wall paper clinging to the tacks with which a night rider notice was posted, furnished the clue which led to the arrest of the first suspected night rider.

The wall paper corresponded to the wall paper in the home of Claude Bell, aged 28 years, a farmer, living near the Webster county line, and he was arrested.

The night rider notice had been posted at the home of Will Spencer, a well-known Webster county farmer, and was followed by the destruction of Spencer's home by fire. Spencer and his family barely escaped from the burning house with their lives.

BOARD IS REAPPOINTED

Public Library Directors Named For Terms Beginning July 1.

MUCH WORK WAS PAID FOR

Heavy Expenditures For Sewers And Streets Last Month.

The Council met Monday night with all present except Dr. Braley. A contract with the L. & N. for the building of the 14th street sewer under its right of way was ordered signed by the Mayor.

The Library Board submitted a report showing what has been done for the last six months in preparing for the erection of the building. The mayor reappointed the Board for the full terms beginning July 1, as follows: Mrs. W. A. Radford to July 1, 1914; Frank Rives to July 1, 1915; Ira L. Smith to July 1, 1916; W. T. Tandy and Mrs. T. C. Underwood to July 1, 1917. The appointments were approved by the Council.

The budget of accounts for June contained bills aggregating $5,758.78, about $4,200 for sewers. Judge T. P. Cook was allowed $50 for services in the Gee case and the Baseball Club was given $200.

The Assessor's report was accepted and the Collector's receipt for $71,967.58 in taxes and apportionment warrants ordered to record.

In answer to a petition of citizens and on recommendation of the Health Officer the sewer traps removed at 9th and Main last year were ordered put back at the four corners.

Citizens complained of horse trading on Fourth street and "swapping alley" was ordered removed to the open ground at Edgewater Park, near Second street and the river.

An order was made to provide the postmaster with a new map of the city for his use in routing the city for free delivery.

Several pavement ordinances were passed, including sidewalks on Jones street, on both sides of Bryan street to Clay and on west side of North Main from Means avenue to Mrs. Means' corner.

ENTHUSIASM

Was Manifested at Business Men's Meeting Thursday Night.

There were many speakers at the meeting of the H. B. M. A. last Monday night and the talks along different lines were very interesting and enthusiastic.

Mr. J. F. Bible said that where there was a live business men's association much could be accomplished that could not be done by others, no matter how interested men might be in anything looking to the welfare of the city. By united efforts almost anything can be done.

Judge W. T. Fowler, who is familiar with what has been done by agriculturalist Morgan, commended him in most positive terms and made the assertion that Mr. Morgan has already saved the county a hundred times what it has cost to have such a man in our midst.

Mr. Morgan gave a most interesting talk, dwelling more particularly on the northern part of the county. He thinks that section is a garden spot and the proper cultivation of the farms will show that it is rich in agricultural resources.

There were a number of other speakers, among them President Cooper, Hon. Frank Rives and A. H. Eckles. These gentlemen all know the possibilities of the Association for future work and spoke in glowing terms of what has already been done.

DOING WELL

In California Are Hopkinsville Young Men.

Everybody likes to hear of the success achieved in the business world by Hopkinsville boys, who are to be found in every part of the United States, fighting their way from the bottom round of the ladder to the top. Charlie and Cliff Overshiner, who went to California many years ago to grow up with the country, have done remarkable well.

The latter is here on a visit for the first time in a long while and is now living at Orange, Cal. By perseverance and close attention to business he has risen to the position of assistant cashier of the National Bank of Orange.

Charlie Overshiner, who learned the printing business in this office, has long since been a newspaper publisher and is now proprietor of the Santa Ana Bulletin. He has made good and will receive his appointment to the postmastership of Santa Ana in a few days. He has already received notice that his name will be sent to the Senate and his confirmation is beyond question.

NICE SUM

Realized By Eastern Star On "From Manger To The Cross."

Manager Shrode, the ladies of the Eastern Star degree and, it seems to us, everybody that visited The Rex during the two days while "From the Manger to the Cross" was being shown, were delighted with the presentation. The attendance was all that could have been anticipated. Manager Shrode says that hot weather does not lessen the attendance when the bill is good and he is going to have everything that is good if he can get his hands on it—and he can come as near it as any man handling the movies.

Mr. Shrode let the E. S. Degree have all net proceeds for Monday and Tuesday and the ladies realized several hundred dollars, which will be used for buying regalia, jewels and other properties needed in the lodge room.

For Damage to Himself and Breaking Up Buggy.

Thomas West, early in the morning of one day last week, while driving out South Main street, drove under a rope stretched from the East side to the West side of the street as a blockade. Last Monday Mr. West filed a suit against the city in the circuit court in the sum of $1,100 for damages to himself and his vehicle. The rope was across the street to stop traffic on account of the critical illness of Miss Annie Forbes and a red light was hung upon it.

HIGH TEMPERATURES

Are So Common That People Don't Mind Them.

Though we have had 100 degree temperature this week there has been but little complaint. Tuesday the mercury got up to the 100 degree mark but a strong breeze during the day made the heat bearable. July has made a good start to put it over June. Three times out of seven days the temperature registered 100. Mr. Randle reports that the minimum Tuesday night was 69. With cool nights the people can stand the torrid weather during the day, when the humidity is not too great. Old Sol has certainly been on the firing line all summer.

RAIN FOR THE YEAR

Thirty Inches In Six Months, Half of It Was In January.

MAY AND JUNE VERY DRY.

Official Records As Kept By Weather Observer W. F. Randle.

Weather Observer Randle has furnished us with his report of the precipitation for the first six months of this year.

The report is quite an interesting study to those that "mind the weather." During the month of January the city had 9 rains with 5 traces of rain—that is under half an inch. On the 6th 2.15, 7th 2.15, 8th .90, 11th 4.00, 12th .90, 17th .90, 20th 1.20, 23d .90. The total precipitation for the month, including traces, was 14.73 inches. The total rainfall for the other five months was only 15.71 inches, against 14.73 inches for January—1 inch more for the 5 months.

In February, on the 3d, 10th, 22d, 27th, we had precipitations under an inch in measurement. On the 26th we had 2 inches of rain. Total, 4.32. In April we had but 2.52 inches of rain. On the 10th the precipitation was 1.18 inches. On the 3d the trace was .48, 8th .05, 9th .05, 11th .18, 13th .05, 25th .18, 16th .30, 27th .05. Total 2.52.

May and June were almost as dry as the proverbial powder horn. We had no rain in May, only traces, the local showers never measured an inch—68 on the 23d being nearest to it. The traces were on the 15th, 16th, 17th, 20th, 22d, 23d, 27th. For May 2.18 inches.

In June there was no rain, with traces on the 7th, 9th, 20th, 22d. All the traces measuring .52 of an inch.

So far in July there has been .35 of an inch.

Mineral Water of Fine Quality On Four Sides of Hopkinsville.

It is not generally known that Hopkinsville is only a few miles from fine mineral wells on four sides. Cerulean, famed for 100 years, is 16 miles to the west; Salsburg is only 9 miles to the east. Mr. Smithson about 15 years ago dug a well on his place at Hebron Church, near Church Hill, and at a depth of 105 feet struck a fine stream of mineral water that has medicinal qualities of great value, especially in constipation, indigestion and stomach troubles. Hair Not Right for Learning.

The Devon education committee has received an inquiry from the board of education concerning a girl who is said to have been refused admission to a school because her hair was not dressed in pigtail fashion, the London Daily Mail states. The committee has decided to leave the matter for the local managers.

The incident happened, it is stated, at a little school near Bishopstington, South Devon. The medical officer of the county recently visited the school and came to the conclusion that it would be advantageous to the children's health to have their hair in pigtails.

All the girls came to the school with their hair plaited except one girl between ten and twelve years of age, who insisted on wearing her hair hanging loosely down her back. She was sent home. Day after day she presented herself at the school with the same result.

AS CHILDREN LEARN

How Young Birds Are Taught to Sing.

It is Mainly by Imitating Parents, But While Mother Is Chief Instructor of Children, Father Is Principal Tutor of Baby Birds.

Young birds learn to sing, as children learn to talk, for the most part by imitating their parents, but while the mother is the chief instructor of baby children, the father is the principal tutor of baby birds, Harper's Weekly says. The power of mimicry is strongly developed in many birds, like our mocking birds, the English starlings, and the Indian minas, to say nothing of parrots and cockatoos.
Some years ago there was a glossy black hillbilly in the London zoo, which used to say: "I say!" and "all right," with a perfect cockney accent, picked up from a worthy keeper, and parrots can learn Hindustani as easily as the parrot in "Vert-vert" learned French.

The mocking bird seems quite consciously to imitate other birds. Many less conspicuous songsters do the same. The little English redbreast, who is the true robin, has been heard singing the brilliant song of the thrush. The English blackbird, one of the finest feathered choristers, has on two or three occasions been caught imitating the cheery call of chantrel-leer. An English skylark has borrowed the homely little song of the chaffinch, and converted it into soaring skylark rhythms. But quite apart from this random borrowing, which, however, shows the perfection of ear, and of the faculty of mimicry, there is the regular study and practice by which young birds learn their own proper songs, as well as their call notes, their flight songs and the whole repertory of bird music. Certain birds have been heard giving regular singing lessons to their nestlings. Ovenbirds, the little brown, gold-crested ground warblers which fill our woods during May and June with their excited call: "Teacher! teacher! teacher!" give their little ones systematic singing lessons, while the youngsters are still in the brown, Dutch-oven shaped nest on the ground, that has gained the birds their name.

First the father and mother bird sing a duet; then the little ones try to imitate it; the parents go over it again, and the youngsters try it again.
After a while the dinner question presses and the elders go off to hunt for grubs and caterpillars. While they are away the young ones practice their singing lesson, going over it again and again, and then singing it once more after their parents on their return.
English naturalists have noted very similar lessons given in the month of August by the familiar and attractive yellow bunting, so abundant in the hedge rows and so popular a personage in folklore. The song of the "yellowhammer" has for generations been rendered thus: "A little bit of bread and no cheese!" Then the young yellowhammer tries to copy it, haltingly at first, and perhaps gets as far as "A little-bit of bread-and no—" and then stops, not remembering, or not feeling equal to, the cheese. The parent sings again, and the youngster again repeats, still in a weak and uncertain way; but as August merges into September, and the haws swell on the boughs, the young one's song grows stronger and more assured, till at last he graduates with the full melody.

But not all young birds get such regular lessons. Many try the songs themselves, after listening to their fond fathers, and queer, stumbling attempts they make at first, very much like the efforts of children learning to talk. Imitation, therefore, counts for much. Thus the eggs of the English common linnet have been taken from the nest, and placed under brooding skylarks, wood larks and titlarks; and in such case the young linnets have learned the song of their foster parents. But imitation is not everything.
Quite apart from singing lessons and mimicry, song seems to be as natural for birds as the true baby talk is for children who only begin consciously to imitate their parents after many months of "goo-goo"-ing and "ba-baba"-ing on their own accounts. The European cuckoo, for example, is notorious for laying her eggs in other birds' nests, generally those of the quiet little hedge sparrow, just as the American cowbird lays hers in the nest of the wood-warblers. Yet young cuckoos learn to call, though they never know their parents, and there is no record of their ever repeating the song of their involuntary foster parents, the hedge sparrows.

Work for Robert.

It is particularly desirable for the principals of female seminaries never to lose their self-command. Miss X—the principal of an establishment of this kind, is noted for her coolness. One day she heard a number of her pupils screaming violently in the class-room.

"Young ladies! Young ladies!" she said, reprovingly, entering the room.
"What can be the matter that you shriek in such a way?"

"There's a mouse in the room!"
"Indeed! But why should you become excited over so small a matter?"
And then, with a sharp eye on the floor, she turned to a subordinate and remarked, with great coolness, "Miss Jones, go and fetch a policeman as quickly as you can."

Advantages of Night Schools

FOR years our large cities have recognized the absolute necessity for night schools, and they have become a part of such systems. The rural districts have been slow to understand the great waste in energy that comes through the lack of education in each and every community. Of course a few counties in the past year or two have developed "moonlight" or night schools, but it is merely a beginning.

Naturally one would suppose that a county which had for its county seat a city the size and importance of Louisville would have seen the tremendous advantage of such schools, but such has not been the case. When it has been suggested some wiseacre has remarked sagely: "It ain't any use. Nobody 'll come. If they're too lazy to work they won't come, an' if they're hard at work they'll be too tired at night to come. So there you are."

One day early last spring your correspondent happened to be in the office of the county superintendent at the courthouse at Louisville. While waiting he overheard a rural teacher ask, "If I get a few boys in my neighborhood interested in a night school proposition will you and the board stand by me and furnish light, heat and some new lamps?" Of course the superintendent at once agreed to the proposition, but a farmer who stood by edged a little closer and asked, "Who's goin' to pay for the extra work?"

The teacher flushed for a moment and then managed to stammer, "Why—how—what do you mean?"

"Why," he answered, "you ain't in the school teachin' work for your health, are you? What are you goin' to get for this extra two or three nights' work a week from now until the end of the spring term of school?"

"I'm going to get a big price for the work," she answered, with spirit. "The price is to be my own satisfaction that I am doing my full duty by the good NIGHT SCHOOL IN LOUISVILLE.

folks that have kept me in one school for ten whole years. Don't you think I owe something to the people who have given me my bread and butter for ten years?"

That conversation made your correspondent vow that he would visit the little schoolhouse before the end of the spring term. He did ride out to the little building that is perched on a steep hillside to keep it out of the Ohio river during flood times. It was a dreary, rainy night. As he neared the trolley station he felt that there would be no one there for work, but he was mistaken. Four boys out of the eighteen enrolled were on hand and ready for business.

Not one of the four had walked less than a mile in the damp night air, and all of them had been at work all day. Yet there they were, smiling and bright and eager, youngsters who during the time they had been in school as little tots had done practically nothing.

When the teacher said, "I am sorry it's a bad night and there are only four present," your correspondent thought:

"Only four present! But if at this moment each and every schoolhouse in the county had just this number at work it would mean that each year 400 would be caught and held and developed into something better and finer than they would be otherwise. If it could be kept up for ten years it would mean that the county would have 4,000 made over citizens. In a few years it would mean a new state. It is most certainly very much worth while."

Punctuality of M. Poincare.

A story is told in illustration of the claim that M. Poincare is the most punctual man in France. He had promised to attend a public banquet, but was detained by public business. Accordingly, he sent his secretary to take his place at the table and announced that he might himself be expected at ten o'clock. Doubts of his coming were expressed, but the secretary spoke confidently: "M. Poincare will come; he will be here at ten—to the minute." In due course, the clock struck ten, and M. Poincare was still invisible. The secretary was chafed on the subject, but he did not lose confidence. "M. Poincare is here," he said; "he is waiting for the music to stop before entering." The music stopped, and as the last note died away, M. Poincare walked in amid voliferous applause.

British Cows Which Eat Fish.

Dried codfish, unsalted, is eaten by the inhabitants of the Faroe islands (between Shetland and Iceland) or their cows, says a consular report.
The fish, which is of the cod type, is considered good for cows, as it enables them, it is stated, to yield an ample supply of rich milk. The dried fish is not cooked before being eaten; it is merely laid on stones and then pounded with stones or hammers.

A paint brush is an excellent thing to remove dust from cracks and

AVOID THE CROWDS

Danger From Pneumonia in Unsettled Weather.

Great Menace in Street Cars and They Should Be Shunned During the Rush Hours, and Especially While One Is Fatigued.

The end of the winter, far from bringing a termination to the danger from pneumonia, in reality marks the beginning of the season when this disease becomes an extremely serious cause of increase of mortality, says the Journal of the American Medical association. This is true particularly in large cities. In recent years this increase has become more and more marked and is all the more striking because of the decrease in deaths from other infectious diseases. Pneumonia has been aptly termed the "captain of the men of death," displacing tuberculosis, which for so long occupied that "bad eminence." The most important problem before the medical profession at present is the reduction of the death rate from pneumonia. Considering the nature of the disease and the intense strain which it imposes on the heart, it is probable that the only hopeful outlook for any considerable reduction in pneumonia mortality is through the prevention of the disease.

The prospect of a cure for it, in the popular sense of that term, has grown less as we have learned more about the disease. While pneumonia is most frequent in the colder portion of the year it is not dependent entirely on low temperature. The disease occurs at all seasons and in all climates, but is rather rare in the cold of high altitudes and is almost never known to occur within the Arctic circle. In spite of all their suffering from cold, Arctic explorers escape this danger.

Hence we must assume that cold acts in conjunction with some other factor in the production of the disease. Pneumonia is favored by lack of sunlight and it occurs among those who are much exposed to dust or who have to breathe the emanations from the lungs of other people. Catarrhal processes affecting the air passages prepare the soil for the implantation of the germ of pneumonia. It is particularly a disease of city life and crowded living. With our present knowledge the prospects are hopeful for the control of pneumonia in the future through prevention. This is of special importance to the individual.
The avoidance of pneumonia is largely a question of personal precautions that prevent the development of the disease by lessening the predisposition to it.

Men in middle life, particularly those above fifty, must learn in unsettled weather to avoid crowds, especially when fatigued and when they have been for a number of hours without eating. Late at night, when for any reason a meal has been missed, crowds are dangerous. If this lesson could be generally learned there would be less pneumonia among the well to do classes. The principal danger comes in crowded street cars, which if possible should be avoided at rush hours. It needs to be emphasized that the danger from overcrowding is greatly enhanced by fatigue and going without food. In a word, the prevention of pneumonia is now much clearer than it was. Like all other infectious diseases, instead of being a more or less inevitable dispensation it has come to be recognized as due to certain definite factors which can be greatly lessened by public and individual hygienic regulations.

Cautious and True.

A good story is being told of Mr.
Gulland, M. P., the government Scottish whip.

During a recent all-night sitting when everybody wanted to go home to bed and couldn't, he passed a liberal M. P. reclining on a bench, half asleep.
"Is this debate going on much longer?" the M. P. asked drowsily.

It was one of those questions with which whips are forever being bombarded, for, needless to say, no one—not even Mr. Asquith—could answer it with any degree of certainty.

Mr. Gulland was equal to the occasion, however, for he glanced at his questioner with the most sympathetic air in the world, and answered, gently: "I think we're getting nearer to the end of it."—Tit-Bits.

The Healer.

A physician, at a luncheon in Providence, told a dialect story:

"A physician from the south," he began, "said he was glad that a new treatment was now better understood —that it was not looked on like the treatment of Dr. Mose.

"A white physician, meeting Dr.
Mose, said:

"Well, Mose, where have you been?"

"Been to see Cal Clay," Mose replied. "He busted a blood vessel wrestlin' with Wash White."

"Why, Mose, that's serious; what did you prescribe?" asked the white doctor.

"I fixed him up all right with alum and gum arabic," Mose answered.
"Alum to draw the parts together, and the gum to stick 'em."

Same Here.

"Ella Wheeler Wilcox says that a hundred years from now the eating of meats will be a thing of the past."

"Well, she is right so far as I am concerned."

English Yeoman.

The degradation and misuse of words goes on apace; it is a pity that every writer who misuses the printed word can't be fined for the benefit of the language and the national exchequer. A contemporary, referring to emigration from the south and west, has for a sub-headline, "1,260 Yeomen Leave England in One Day." Now "yeoman" is a good old English word the meaning of which should be carefully cherished. Any country laborer or farmer is not a yeoman. A yeoman is a man who cultivates his own freehold, who farms his own land. He is no man's servant, and may hold his head as high as the squire. There are still yeomen of ancient blood in England who would sniff at the offer of a title. One of the finest men I ever knew was a Dorset Yeoman, and his ancestors had farmed the same land for three centuries.—London Chronicle.

thus keeping the majority of them in the drawing room, while his compan-

FROM ONE TO FOUR MORE Bushels of Wheat Per Acre

This is the result if you sow your wheat with

THOMAS SINGLE DISC DRILL

This is worth thinking about and you should let us explain just why this is TRUE.

IT'S THIS WAY

OUR discs and tube boots make a wide furrow, (1½ in. wide). The seed is scattered all over this wide furrow, and every grain given a chance to stool out and grow. So there are more and better stalks, producing more grain.

You ought to have a THOMAS DRILL CATALOG. Shall we send it?

The Other Way

OTHER makes of single disc drills make a wedge shaped furrow; the grain all runs down to the same place, piles up together, and does not get the same good chance to grow as when the seed is scattered over the wide furrow made by the "Thomas" Drill and thoroughly covered over.

LET US SHOW YOU THOMAS DRILLS and LIME SOWERS

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
 There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies.
 Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

Fine for Ma.

 "Is it hard to iron, mamma?" she his face, and answered: "Chesapeake."

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the price of a Weekly.

No Other Newspaper in the World Gives So Much at So Low a Price.

This is a time of great events and you will want the news accurately and promptly. The Democrats, for the first time in sixteen years, will have the Presidency and they will also control both branches of Congress. The political news is sure to be of the most absorbing interest.

There is a great war in the Old World, and you may read of the extinction of the vast Turkish Empire in Europe, just as a few years ago you read how Spain lost her last foot of soil in America, after having ruled the empire of half the New World.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first class daily.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $2.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

CAP and BELLS

ACTOR-MANAGER AS A STAR

Must Be Given Time to Visit the Box Office and Watch the Money While Being Counted.

Rex Beach said at the inaugural meeting of the Authors' league in New York:

"I don't prophesy that this league will make author-publishers of us—that author-publishers will become as common as actor-managers. In fact, I'm afraid an author-publisher wouldn't get on. He is not mercenary enough. 'Have you heard, by the way, the latest story about our famous actor-manager, Hamfat?'"

"Hamfat's reader was turning down a play."

"My good young friend," the reader said, "it is plain you don't understand modern, up-to-date play construction. Why, in this play here Mr. Hamfat, as the star, wouldn't be off the stage five minutes from the first act to the last."

"But," faltered the young playwright, "I thought the stars all liked that."

"No, no," said the reader; "not your up-to-date stars; not your twentieth century actor-managers. No, no, young man. You must always leave your modern actor-manager at least 15 minutes in the second act to go round to the box office and watch the money being counted."

Smart Gateman.

"I had always thought the public servants of my own city were the freshest on earth," said a New York man, "but a recent experience in Kansas City has led to a revision of that notion."

"One afternoon I dashed into a railway station of that town with just half a minute to buy my ticket and enter a train for Chicago. I dashed through the first gate and, pointing to a certain train, asked hurriedly of the gateman:—"

"Is that my train?"
"Well, I don't know," replied he, with exasperated deliberation. "Maybe it is, but the cars have the company's name on them."—Harper's Magazine.

Complaint.

"You are always complaining about the taxpayer."

"Yes, I sympathize with the masses."

"How much do you pay in the way of taxes?"

"My dear sir, that has nothing to do with the case. The man who is paying a whole lot of taxes is usually so busy that he hasn't time to do his own complaining."

WELL, FROM $200 DOWN.

Wife—I do really need a new bonnet.

Hubby—How much?

Wife—Well, I could get one for from $10 up.

Hubby—I'd rather know from how much "down."

Worked Both Ways.

"Two mighty sad looking women."

"Aren't they?"

"I wonder what their trouble is?"

"One of them was jilted by the man she was in love with."

"And the other?"

"Oh, the man she was in love with married her."

Her Injunction.

"When you kissed your weeping mother goodbye, and went out into the world to make your fortune, I presume her last tearful injunction was for you to be good?"

"No, make good."

Claiming the Credit.

"His wife has made a fool of him."

"He doesn't know it."

"How do you know he doesn't?"

"He says he is a self-made man."

Effect of One Bottle.

Crandall, Tex.—"After my last spell of sickness," writes Mrs. Belle Teal, of this city, "I remained very ill, and stayed in bed for eight weeks. I couldn't get up, all this time, and though my doctor came to see me every day, he didn't do me any good. I had taken but one bottle of Cardui, when I was up, going everywhere, and soon I was doing all my housework." Cardui helps when other medicines have failed, because it contains ingredients not found in any other medicine. Pure, safe, reliable, gentle-acting—Cardui is the ideal medicinal tonic for weak, sick women. Try it.

SAW NO HARM IN KISSING

Wife Considered Her Reception of Promiscuous Osculations "Broad-minded."

The propriety of promiscuous kissing by a wife came before Supreme Court Justice Gavegan in a recent suit for divorce brought by David Lockwood, a civil engineer, against Mary A. Lockwood. Mrs. Lockwood admitted on the witness stand that she had kissed the co-respondent the first night she met him and a good many times afterward, but she didn't see any harm in it.

The testimony of Mrs. Lockwood, her sister, Miss Maud Plumstead, and Mrs. Evelyn Maybee, indicated that the co-respondent, Morton S. Arvis, showed no favoritism in his kissing, but treated all three women with equal generosity. Mrs. Lockwood's story of the events on the night when her husband contended she had been guilty of conduct which entitled him to a divorce was that Arvis really called to see Miss Plumstead, and that she was just entertaining him until her sister returned, when Lockwood burst into the house with a party of friends.

"What explanation have you married women to make for kissing a man on the first night you meet him?" asked the court.

"Only that I did not see any harm in it," replied Mrs. Lockwood. "Mr. Arvis was sociable and kissed us all."

"Do you think it proper for married women to kiss strange men this way?"

"Well, it's not improper. You see, Mr. Lockwood often kissed other women, and we came to look upon such things from a broad-minded point of view."

"Don't you think you were exceedingly broad-minded that night, Mrs. Lockwood?" asked the court.

"Yes, I do now," replied the defendant.

The court said he would sign a decree awarding the custody of the young child of the couple to Lockwood.—New York Sun.

COW HAS ARTIFICIAL LEG

Illinois Veterinarian by Skillful Work Preserved Usefulness of Valuable Animal.

Near Galena, Ill., a veterinary surgeon owns a cow with a wooden leg. Owing to an accident her leg had to be amputated just below the knee. When the wound healed the doctor fixed up a leg with a hoof on a hinge and attached it to the animal and she promptly adopted it. She now manages to get about comfortably, although not very rapidly, and is as fat and in every way as valuable as any other cow on the place. The doctor believes that many valuable animals that sustain injuries of this kind might be saved by the use of artificial limbs.—Exchange.

Not Entirely Biblical.
When the Bible was translated into Japanese an equivalent to the word "baptize" could not be found, and the word "soak" had to be used instead.
So that Japanese biblical students are acquainted with a person named "John the Soaker" and with a doctrine of "soaking for remission of sins."

Book Annoyed Him.
"Oh, please do away with that book!" was the remark of a man to the bench, when the conviction book was produced to show that it was his fifty-sixth appearance in court.

One employe of the senate, at least has not yet been a victim of the change in administration, and the chances are that he will not be. He is Charles N. Richards, 72 years old, superintendent of the senate stationery room, who has just started on his fiftieth year of service.
Mr. Richards entered the service of the senate in the days when Charles Sumner and Henry Wilson were the senators from Massachusetts, his native state.
He was appointed to office fifteen years before Senator Luke Lea of Tennessee, at present the youngest member of the senate, was born, and was serving the highest legislative body in the country long before many of the present day senators had seen the light of day.
"This is the third time that the Democrats have had a chance to lop off my official head," said Mr. Richards the other day, "and they haven't done it yet. What's the reason? Here are three: First, I am a stationery clerk; secondly, they want a sample of the old rascals, to show just what a bad lot we were, and thirdly, they seem to want me to stay, and I want to stay more than they want to have me.
There is not a senator, member of the house or member of the Supreme court who was in office when I began my work here."

The net earnings of corporations of year of 1912 were Corporations' $3,000,000,000, an Big Earnings. increase of $250,- 000,000 over 1911.

This amount will yield an income to the federal government under the corporation tax law of $30,000,000, which is $2,500,000, or 8 per cent, greater than a year ago. Royal E. Cabell, commissioner of internal revenue, has just received returns from practically all corporations, and today completed assessments to the full extent of the $30,000,000, which must be paid to the government by June 30. In addition $2,000,000 will come from delinquents of previous years. Net corporation earnings for 1911 decreased 2 per cent, as compared with 1910. The figures for 1912, however, showing an increase of about 8 per cent. over 1911, were 6 per cent. greater than 1910.

made by Gregory in search of office deserved to be rewarded.
"I'm glad William is here," said the senator, "for he will prove an example to the members of his race." He added that this old employe "never would take a seat in a street car while a woman was standing."

Representative Henry D. Flood has a constituent down in Spottsylvania county, Virginia, who has long
aspired to the position of postmaster at the neighboring crossroads store. His name is Stephen Noah, and when at last his application was presented to Mr. Flood for approval he indorsed it as follows:
"I take pleasure in supporting Mr.
Noah. We Floods supported him several thousand years ago."

Astronomer's Theory.
While the most of us are attributing the floods to the neglect of men and their governments to take the necessary precautions in dealing with the rivers, Camille Flammarian, the eminent French astronomer, suggests a theory that puts the disaster over and above the power of man to prevent. We say that men have erred in narrowing the river channels and building bridges over them that in flood time serve as dams. He says that the disaster is due to the movement of the earth's crust. "The whole of the western section of the great lakes region," he says, "is slowly but surely sinking in a southwesterly direction," and then he tells us that somebody has computed that if the subsidence continues five centuries hence, Lake Michigan will end by running away into the Mississippi.
That may be. But in the meantime it will be well for men to deal with the rivers intelligently and with foresight.—Columbus Dispatch.

Beards on Wheat as Lightning Rods.
Wheat growers in general do not favor long-bearded grain, as the straw made therefrom is not liked by farmyard animals.

Still, in windy regions the beard of wheat is found to act as a protection, its elasticity keeping the plants from injury. It also checks the inroads of birds.
But quite a new function of the pointed bristles has been discovered by Professor Lemstron of the University of Helsingfors, who points out that the points of the bristles dissipate electricity, acting somewhat like miniature lightning conductors.

Pessimist Criticism.

"Men who meet to discuss serious matters are not often guilty of taking up subjects pertaining to women," says a Vienna letter, except in England, where abnormal conditions exist. But an exception of an interesting kind occurred in the Austrian parliament recently, when Victor Silberer, a deputy, spoke about the passing of the buxom woman and deplored the fact that by the decree of fashion the thin and scrawny straight-line woman had taken the place of the plump beauty who was once the pride of the imperial city. "The new woman," he said, "no matter how well she may conform to the prevailing fashion, is ugly, and her training to reach the straight-line demands will certainly have a bad effect on the coming generation."

THE CARNIVAL DOING WELL

The Attendance is Increasing From Day To Day.

THE SHOWS ARE CLEAN.

Knights of Pythias Working Hard To Make It a Success.

The Whitney Shows, brought here by the Uniform Rank K. of P., are drawing good crowds, each night showing increased attendance. There are no objectionable features about the shows and in every way they ought not to fail in bringing in a nice revenue. The K. P.'s are doing their part in boosting the shows and the free attractions brings a good crowd every night.

The street leading to the Carnival grounds was oiled Tuesday and there will be no clouds of dust in reaching the grounds at Fifteenth and Canton streets.

The Hard Part.

"Huh!" says the friend "You get your money easy enough!" "Oh, I know I get it easily," replies the other. "All I have to do is stand in line for my pay envelope. It was the earning it I was kicking about." Judge.

Bob Taylor Lives,

In the two bright and beautiful books just issued, "Lectures and Best Literary Productions," and "Life and Career" of Senator Robert Love Taylor, handsomely illustrated, you cannot hear again his voice or see the humorous curl of his lips, that convulsed a continent with laughter, but, within the covers of these volumes, are the pictures woven of his wondrous words, and, laughing through their sunny pages, are all of the inimitable stories which he told to the multitudes. In "Life and Career," pens of genius have traced his romantic life from its morning in "Happy Valley," through his young and roseate dreams through stress and storm, through cheering throngs, and on into the waiting shadows, loved and laurel crowned.

We expect to sell millions of these books. First edition going fast.

Quick Business Transaction.

While a flock of sheep was being driven along the Glasgow and Carlisle road, near the town of Lockerbie, Scotland, the other day, a motor ran into it, killing three. The motorist at once drew up, inquired as to the cost of the sheep, paid for them, bade the shepherd "Good-day," and went on his way, the whole affair being the work of a few minutes.

Disturbing Edward I.

Few bodies have so often been disturbed as that of Edward I. of England. Every other year his tomb in Westminster abbey was opened, and the wax of the king's cerecloth renewed. Probably this was connected with his dying charge to his son that his flesh should be boiled, his bones carried at the head of the English army until Scotland was subdued, and his heart sent to the Holy Land. With the fall of Richard II. and the dynasty, these hopes vanished, and the tomb was not disturbed again until toward the end of the eighteenth century, when the Society of Antiquaries did it. Having viewed the body, they poured pitch upon it, and, as Horace Walpole says, "boast now of having inclosed him so effectually that his ashes cannot be violated again."

Townsville.

There are pitfalls in place names. The Observer has tumbled into one, and in fraternal charity it must be extricated. It alludes to the "obvious redundancy" in Townsville, the name of the chief center of Northern Queensland, and asks us "not to be hard on the plucky pioneers, stronger in brawn and brain than in book learning, who invented Townsville." There is no "obvious redundancy." The simple historical fact is that the original pioneer settler was a certain Captain Towns, and that the place was named after him.

The Current Craze.

"A great many old plays are being fitted out with alleged melodies and sent out as operettas." "That's right. But they're going too far. I know of one actress who is going to star in a musical version of the multiplication table."
